

The most important thing about Reading is opening up a new world

It connects us with the wider world

It deepens our imagination

It builds empathy

It embeds language

And it fosters a lifelong love of literature

But the most important thing about Reading is opening up a new world

The most important thing about Writing is that it gives us a voice

It allows us to express our thoughts

It lets us play with new and ambitious words

It gives us confidence to structure our ideas

It enables us to communicate in varying ways

And share with others

But the most important thing about Writing is that it gives us a voice
