Last week a treacherous, brutal storm invaded Norwich. The storms caused a huge boat fight as everyone wanted to leave Norwich before it got flooded. The fights ended up splitting up the Thompson family leaving 13 year old girl called Zoe left on her own in Norwich. Are Zoe's parents still alive?

The ferocious floods

As soon as the water began to rise, hundreds of thousands of people began to flee from the formidable floods (in Norwich). The people who shipped in the islands food used to let people come with them to the mainland; when they last came they said that it was their final visit. The boats didn't have a big enough capacity to take every one left on the island. This meant 239 residents were left on the island. Where people weren't able to get on the boats, families were separated from each other. One of these people was a 13-year-old girl called Zoe who said that her dad (Mr. Thompson) to get on the boat with her sick mum. This meant Zoe was left stranded on the island. Jordan North, who is Zoe's next door , said "None of the inhabitants left on the island have seen any sight of her parents." Zoe said that these have been the worst few months of her life, whilst tears ran down her cheeks.

The story so far

After her parents evacuated the city of Norwich, Zoe had to focus on herself and find safety. One day she found a boat hanging up on a pub wall. The next night, she waited until it was pitch black and then stole the boat off the pub and hid it in a grave yard shed; that wasn't enough. A few people who were against Zoe's organization, knew all about ' Lyca' (Zoe's boat name). The next day, they chased Zoe down until they got to the graveyard wall which Zoe jumped over. Next Zoe dragged the petite boat down to shore ready to row across the North Sea. She managed to find an island that carried a colossal cathedral like building. It's been reported that the island Zoe is staying on is called Eels Island. She has been there for 3 days (not including today) searching for any information about her lost parents. She is in pain from the rowing: she is struggling to move. Zoe said, " I have tried everything in my power to find them, I don't know what to do!" In addition to that, policeman KL Rahul has done all he can to hopefully find Mr and Mrs Thompson.

What can you do to help?
